BRITAIN LOSES TWO CRUISERS IN INDIAN OCEAN

Dorsetshire And Cornwall Destroyed By Japanese Air Action

1,100 SURVIVORS LISTED

London Announces Sinking Of Italian Warship In Mediterranean

LONDON, April 9 — Loss of two British cruisers to Japanese action in the Indian ocean and the sinking of a 10,000 ton Italian cruiser in the Mediterranean were announced by the admiralty today.

One of the British cruisers lost was the 9,975-ton Dorsetshire, previously perhaps the most envied vessel in the royal navy. It was the Dorsetshire that on May 27, 1941, gave the giant German battleship Bismarck the coup de grace.

Her captain, Commander A.E.S. Agar, was privileged to give the order which sent a final torpedo into the huge Nazi dreadnaught, sending her to the bottom after a dramatic battle with ships and planes of the British navy.

The other vessel was the 10,000-ton cruiser Cornwall. A total of 1,100 men was saved from both ships.

Sinking of the Dorsetshire and the Cornwall brought British cruiser losses to 18 out of 56 since the outbreak of hostilities, not accounting for wartime building.

The Dorsetshire and the Cornwall, like the Prince of Wales and the Repulse, were both sunk by Japanese bombing and torpedo-carrying planes in the course of extended action in the Indian ocean during which enemy planes bombed the great naval base of Trincomalee on the island of Ceylon.

(Editor's Note: In announcing the loss of the cruisers, the British government confirmed merely one of a host of axis claims. The Berlin radio asserted that Japanese forces had landed at an undisclosed spot on the Bay of Bengal, which could be in India proper or Burma, and said that Nippon troops "which are now north of Ayah" were advancing along the road to Calcutta. A recent Chinese announcement that the Japanese had seized Ayah was found to be erroneous. Meanwhile, the Japanese claimed to have sunk 21 and heavily damaged 23 merchant vessels in the Indian ocean, as well as shooting down 60 planes in recent activities. All of these assertions went without confirmation in any reliable quarter.)

The Italian cruiser was torpedoed and sunk. It brought to five the number of Italian vessels of this class sent to the bottom since the war began. Italy entered the war with only seven 10,000-ton cruisers.

Claims Confirmed

An admiralty communique confirming earlier Japanese claims that the two cruisers had been lost read:

NAVAL BASE ON INDIAN ISLE HIT

Japanese Planes Attack Trincomalee; No Loss Reported

NEW DELHI, April 9—Striking at Indian territory for the third time in five days, Japanese planes today attacked the British naval base of Trincomalee on the island of Ceylon.

Enemy aircraft also were sighted over Colombo, capital of Ceylon where the Japanese last Sunday suffered a terrific set-back when they attempted a sneak raid there.

There was no civilian damage at Trincomalee, according to first reports. The base is situated on the northeast coast of Ceylon, about 100 miles northeast of Kandy. It lies on the north side of Trincomalee bay, and has a magnificent harbor. Heretofore the base had been headquarters of the admiral commanding the East Indian station.

MARSHALL AND HOPKINS BEGIN LONDON TALKS

LONDON, April 9—Discussions of vital importance concerning British and American military strategy and war production efforts commenced in London today between British officials and Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the U. S. Army, and Presidential Aide Harry Hopkins. Despite the lateness of the hour at which the two Americans left the company of Prime Minister Winston Churchill last night, Gen. Marshall and Hopkins were astir early this morning and by 10 a. m. had gone their separate ways — Marshall to confer with members of the British imperial staff and Hopkins to plunge into a series of important conferences with war production officials.

MAN'S HEAD CRUSHED

CHILLICOTHE, April 9 — Charles Atkinson of South Bloomington was killed Wednesday evening when his head was crushed against the ground when the front end of an automobile, under which he was working, slipped from blocks on which it had been placed after removal of the wheels.

ABOVE are shown Major General Jonathan Wainwright, commander of United States and Filipino forces in the Philippines, who today told the War department that overwhelming Japanese strength had forced him to retreat to Corregidor island, Manila Bay fortress, to continue resistance. In the art layout are shown guns on the island base, and the Bataan peninsula, held against great odds by the allied forces until today.

War Bulletins

MELBOURNE — Five Japanese bombers today raided Tulagi, in the Solomon islands, dropping between 30 and 50 bombs, it was officially announced. There were no casualties as far as is known, but some damage resulted.

LONDON — Authoritative sources in London said today that they had no confirmation of Tokyo reports quoted by the Berlin radio saying a Japanese expeditionary force had been landed on the coast of the Bay of Bengal.

CAIRO — The British middle East command announced today that Axis columns which had spread out from their base at Mekki Tuesday did not attempt to "advance further" yesterday. "We took a number of prisoners from an enemy detachment trying to establish a strong point between Timimi and El Gazala," the communique said.

LONDON—Reuters today quoted a Vichy news agency report from Tangier, Morocco, that heavy gunfire was heard late last night from the direction of Gibraltar. The dispatch said the shelling was heard at 10 p. m. Gun flashes and shell bursts were seen, it was said, while searchlights swept the sky.

NEW YORK — Three members of the Fascist Rexist party were killed and several wounded in several skirmishes in Brussels, the British radio reported today, according to CBS. A large V was drawn on the back of one of the men, the British radio said.

100,000 MEXICANS MAY BE IMPORTED TO WORK

WASHINGTON, April 9—Sen. Sheridan Downey (D) Calif., disclosed today that the United States is considering the importation of 100,000 Mexicans to replace Japanese and Filipino laborers on farms and truck gardens, principally in western states.

Downey said that negotiations with the Mexican government are being handled by the state department.

Corregidor's Guns Hold Japanese Bomb Planes At Bay; Forts Powerful

WASHINGTON, April 9—The mighty Corregidor island fortress, where Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright has made his headquarters following collapse of the Bataan defense, commands the entrance to Manila bay.

On the island, located approximately three miles off the tip of Bataan and eight miles north of Manila bay's south shore, is Fort Mills. A short distance south of Corregidor is Fort Hughes, a smaller fortified island, while two other island fortifications, Drum and Frank are located near the Cavite shore across the bay from Bataan.

Since the war began, the anti-aircraft guns of Corregidor have repulsed two prolonged Japanese aerial assaults, while inflicting heavy losses on the enemy.

Early in January the Japanese sent waves of as many as 60 heavy bombers against Corregidor daily for nearly a week, but the fortress continued to fight off the attacks.

During the recent renewed Japanese onslaught Corregidor was bombed daily for almost two weeks but the Japanese finally quit their attacks after losing between two and four bombers in every raid. Approximately 35 Jap planes have been blasted out of the sky by the amazingly accurate gunners.

F. D. PENS NOTE OF PRAISE FOR NORWAY'S KING

WASHINGTON, April 9—Faith of the Norwegian people in the ultimate victory of the democracies was hailed by President Roosevelt today as "an inspiration to the peoples of the United Nations."

In a message to King Haakon in connection with the second anniversary of the German invasion of Norway, the President said: "On April 9 two years ago Nazi hordes shocked the civilized world by invading without any provocation your peaceful and law abiding country."

"Your majesty's faith and the faith of the Norwegian people in the cause of democracy and the ultimate victory of the forces resisting aggression has been and continues to be an inspiration to the peoples of the United Nations."

The message was addressed to King Haakon in London, where the Norwegian sovereign remains at the head of his government.

anti-aircraft batteries, Corregidor has powerful 12 inch guns which have been dueling successfully for weeks with Japanese batteries on the Cavite shore.

The reason Japanese bombing has failed to cause any material damage is due to the fact that the gun control and storage rooms are located far underground and protected by layers of concrete.

To date the Japanese have made no naval attack on Corregidor because the guns of their warships cannot compete with the ones that sweep the China sea from the island fortress.

BAMBINO SHOWS RALLY; DOCTOR EXPRESSES HOPE

HOLLYWOOD, April 9—Babe Ruth, the mighty bambino of baseball fame and the hero of a generation of school boys, appeared today to be winning the fight for his life at the Hollywood hospital where he was rushed yesterday in critical condition.

Ruth's personal physician, Dr. R. Nichol Smith, announced at the hospital that the former New York Yankee outfielder was "considerably improved."

Ruth's wife was the only visitor admitted to Ruth's room since he was taken to the hospital. She kept constant vigil at her husband's bedside throughout the night.

"It is too early to say that he might not take a sudden turn for the worse," Dr. Smith said, "but for a man who was so dangerously ill as he was when brought to the hospital, he is responding nicely."

Ruth was rushed to the hospital in an ambulance from his hotel when his temperature shot up as high as 104 degrees during intermittent chills and fever.

He immediately was placed in a pneumonia jacket and treated for pneumonia, although Dr. Smith said at the time he was not sure exactly what was wrong with Ruth except that it appeared to be a "pulmonary condition."

The ball player, in Hollywood to play himself in a baseball picture based on the life of the late Lou Gehrig, became ill Tuesday night.

SHELBY MAN KILLED SHELBY, O., April 9—Word of the death of his son, Capt. Elmer L. Parsel, 36, of the U. S. Army Air Corps, in an airplane accident in India, was received today by William Parsel of nearby Plymouth.

WAINWRIGHT REACHES FORT MILLS; JAPANESE OVERCOME DEFENDERS

"Complete Exhaustion" Given By American General As Reason For Brave Army's Defeat Following Lengthy Struggle

FOUR FORTS STAND IN NIPS' PATH

Five Days, Nights Of Continuous Attack Bring Victory For Tokyo; 'Schedule' Of Axis Ally Broken By U. S. Stand

WASHINGTON, April 9—Bataan fell today to numerically superior Japanese forces, entrapping 36,800 heroic American-Filipino troops who were physically exhausted from five days of terrific bombardment, a shortage of rations and the ravages of disease.

Announcement was made in a brief communique issued at 5:15 a. m., followed later by a statement from Secretary of War Stimson that the fate of the encircled defenders is not known.

The end came when Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright reported from Corregidor that the valiant little band of Americans and natives on Bataan had been outflanked and that efforts to relieve them had failed.

Of the 36,800 troops trapped, approximately 17,500 were said by the war department to be Americans.

At a press conference later, Stimson expressed the conviction that the brave defenders of Bataan will be avenged.

WASHINGTON, April 9—Fighting furiously but hopelessly to the very end, the valiant defenders of Bataan were overcome today by the terrific numerical superiority of the enemy and by their own complete exhaustion.

Announcement was made by the War department in a special communique issued at 5:15 a. m. in which Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright reported from Corregidor that her American-Filipino forces on the peninsula had been outflanked and that efforts to relieve them had failed.

"Full details are not available," the brief 80-word communique said, "but this situation indicates the probability that the defenses on Bataan have been overcome."

Loss of the peninsula came on the 90th day of the battle of Bataan, a deliberate campaign of attrition commenced last January 10 by Gen. Douglas MacArthur following the fall of Manila.

Four Forts Hold Out

It by no means concludes the defense of the Philippines however. A considerable force is still resisting the enemy on the island of Mindanao, 250 miles to the South, while four powerful forts in the Corregidor-Cavite area — Fort Mills, Fort Frank, Fort Hughes and Fort Drum — are still holding out, preventing the enemy from using the facilities of Manila bay.

The long anticipated end came when the Japanese succeeded by sheer weight of numbers in enveloping the east flank of the defending line, trapping Wainwright's No. 2 corps.

Wainwright informed the War department that the No. 1 corps immediately attacked to relieve the situation, but the maneuver "failed due to the complete physical exhaustion of the troops."

While fighting on Bataan may still be going on in small isolated areas, Wainwright's report left little doubt that organized resistance had collapsed on the peninsula after nearly 90 days of almost continuous fighting and Japanese aerial bombardment.

Attacks Continuous

The final Japanese attack which flanked the American position came after more than five days and nights of continuous attacks by the Nipponese on land, sea and in the air.

Outcome of the Bataan battle became apparent several days ago when the Japanese launched endless waves of attacks on land, while enemy artillery, airplanes and guns on barges blasted the valiant American-Filipino army from all sides.

WAR TODAY

Bataan's Fall Biggest News; Activity Speeds Up In Other Areas

By International News Service
Relentless pressure of overwhelmingly superior Japanese forces has finally overcome the gallant defense of the American and Filipino defenders of Bataan.

Announcement that Bataan had finally fallen, but that stubborn American-Filipino resistance was being continued from Corregidor and other points in the Philippines came while Japanese and German pressure was increasing in other fields. The admiralty confirmed the loss of two British cruisers, victims of bombing and torpedo attacks by Japanese planes in the Indian ocean.

At the same time, from India, came the report of a Japanese air blow at the vital British naval base of Trincomalee on the island of Ceylon. This was the third such assault against Indian territory in five days.

Countering this grim news to some extent was the British admiralty announcement of the sinking of a 10,000-ton Italian cruiser in the Mediterranean.

Also on the favorable side for the United Nations was a dispatch from Sydney, Australia, that the ports of Lae and Salamau on the island of New Guinea are rapidly becoming "Japanese graveyards" for planes and men under the pounding of the Australian and American air forces.

Tulagi Bombed

In that same sector, five Japanese bombers today bombed Tulagi, in the Solomon islands, inflicting some damage but no casualties, so far as is known.

COUNCIL STUDIES REPORT ON FINANCIAL REVISIONS

Councilmen Wednesday night gave thorough study to the Ohio Chamber of Commerce report which recommends certain changes of policy in promoting strict economy in city expenditures.

Following the meeting, Frank Lynch, chairman, said that councilmen had gone through the entire report, making various notations where it was believed expenses might be cut. "We hope to have something definite by the next regular council meeting," Mr. Lynch said.

Council's next regular meeting will be held Wednesday, April 13, beginning at 8 o'clock.

MORE DETAILS ON NEW SUGAR RATION LISTED

Defense Council Sets Up Machinery To Register Trades, Institutions

DATES ARE APRIL 28, 29

High School Teachers And Principals To Have Important Jobs

Laying groundwork for the trade and institutional sugar rationing program, the Ohio Council of Defense Thursday announced plans for registration of retailers, wholesalers, industries and institutions.

Courtney Burton, executive director of the state defense council, said that county rationing co-ordinators had been requested to determine immediately the approximate number of trades and institutions that will be eligible to register April 28 and 29.

This survey, Burton said, will be completed several days before the registration period. "In this way," he declared, "the state will know in advance how many trade and institutional users of sugar that may be expected to register for rationing certificates."

State Rationing Administrator H. T. Beckmann said that retailers, wholesalers and representatives of industries and institutions which use sugar will make application at Ohio's 1,123 high schools for registration forms entitling them to rationing certificates during the two-day period.

The amount of sugar to be allotted to trade and institutional consumers will be based on a mathematical formula developed by the Office of Price Administration following a nation-wide survey, he disclosed.

To File Applications

Beckmann said that trades and institutions possessing a supply of sugar over a limit to be announced shortly will not be given certificates. Certificates, he added, will be good for unit amounts until June 30 when users will have to file a new application with their local rationing boards.

Trade and institutional consumers failing to register April 28 and 29 will have to wait two weeks before applying to local rationing boards for sugar certificates.

County coordinators will direct the survey to determine the approximate number of trades and institutions eligible to register, Beckmann said. The actual work will be carried out by high school principals who will report to the city superintendent of schools. He in turn will turn over a complete report to the county rationing co-ordinator.

Correct Data Important

High school teachers will be mobilized to register the thousands of trade and institutional representatives expected to apply for rationing certificates, Beckmann said. Persons giving misleading information will be subject to a fine of $10,000 or 10 years imprisonment, he added.

Harry J. Patterson, assistant to Beckmann in charge of sugar rationing, said the OPA already had sent registration forms, certificates and other information applying to the trade and institutional program to a number of counties in the state.

He revealed that the allotment formula intended for industries and institutions differs from the one planned for retailers and wholesalers.

Patterson recalled that the registration of consumers will be held May 4-7.

ELEVEN ALIENS UNDER ARREST

Germans, Italians Living In Wright, Patterson Field Areas Held

CINCINNATI, April 9—Eleven enemy aliens living in the vicinity of vital Wright and Patterson airfields at Dayton today were held by FBI agents, who raided their homes and seized unreported radios, guns, ammunition, cameras and binoculars.

According to R. C. Suran, special agent in charge of southern Ohio FBI headquarters, his men, using information furnished largely by Dayton police, also seized much Nazi literature.

Eight of the aliens were Germans and three were Italians. One of the Germans lived in Springfield. Nine of the eleven were women married to American citizens.

The arrests were made on search warrants issued yesterday by U. S. Commissioner Charles W. Ozias. Suran said that among the seized articles were a short wave radio, an oscillator capable of transmitting radio messages, 12 cameras, five shotguns, a pistol, much ammunition and six pairs of binoculars.

The Nazi literature included writings by Dr. Robert Ley, high Nazi leader, and Julius Streicher, Nazi anti-Jewish writer, as well as several paper-bound copies of Hitler's "Mein Kampf."

All of the 11 were to be questioned by federal officials today. While it was said some of the women may have believed they did not have to report the articles because they were married to citizens, the FBI headquarters explained that the radio and other equipment in their possession was accessible to aliens and therefore should have been reported and turned in.

What do I do?

Scale and rust in your car's cooling system act like insulation around a steam pipe—keep the heat in instead of letting it out. And the hotter your engine runs, the more danger of serious damage. Keep engine temperature normal by having the cooling system thoroughly cleaned at least twice a year—now and in the fall—and add a rust inhibitor for summer driving. BRITAIN LOSES TWO CRUISERS IN INDIAN OCEAN

Dorsetshire, commanded by Captain A. W. S. Agar, V. C., D. S. O., and the Cornwall, commanded by Captain P. C. W. Manwaring, were sunk by Japanese air attacks in the Indian ocean.

"It is known that more than 1,100 survivors, including the commanding officers of both ships, have been picked up.

"No further details are yet available.

"Next of kin will be informed as soon as possible."

Both ships were fairly new, the Cornwall having been completed in 1926 and the Dorsetshire in 1929.

The Italian cruiser sunk in the Mediterranean was heard to "break up" after being hit by a submarine torpedo, the admiralty said.

An official communique read: "An Italian cruiser of ten thousand tons, armed with eight-inch guns, has been torpedoed and sunk in the central Mediterranean by a submarine under command of Lieut. Commander E. P. Tompkinson.

"The cruiser was escorted by destroyers and aircraft.

"Eight minutes after being hit by torpedoes the cruiser was heard to break up and sink.

"A destroyer was later seen picking up survivors."

Lieut. Comdr. Tompkinson is one of Britain's most brilliant submarine commanders. He made news a year ago this month when, while commanding one of Britain's smallest submarines, the H.M.S. Urge, he sank a 10,000-ton enemy oil tanker trying to run the Mediterranean blockade.

The sinking brought to five the number of 10,000-ton Italian cruisers known to have been sunk. Italy entered the war with seven of these cruisers. All four 10,000-ton cruisers of the Zara class were sunk last year.

HUGE GAS TAXES

HARRISBURG, Pa. — Pennsylvania motorists have paid more than $800,000,000 in gasoline taxes to the state and federal government since 1921, according to the Associated Petroleum Industries of Pennsylvania. During 1941, Pennsylvanians paid the Commonwealth more than $7,000,000 which was indicative, the Association said, "of increased ownership and use of motor vehicles travelling over the excellent system of highways which has been constructed and maintained with motor tax revenues."

BIRTH AT CAMP

CAMP CALLAN, Calif. — Several thousand army men recently were discussing the first birth in the history of Camp Callan.

The baby's mother was being rushed by her husband's parents to the San Diego Naval hospital when the stork caught up with the party. The mother was de-toured to Camp Callan's Infirmary A, where the baby was born—and where the Army Medical Corps had a rather different procedure to follow from the usual Army routine.

HOPE FOR INDIAN PARLEY SUCCESS BECOMES BRIGHT

NEW DELHI, April 9.—Hopes of complete success of Sir Stafford Cripps' mission to India were greatly enhanced today, following the report that a new formula believed satisfactorily to all quarters had been agreed on.

It was understood the Hindu Mahasabha party had accepted the British offer to join the projected new government and will receive two seats on the council.

(Reuters) (British news agency in London) reported in a dispatch from New Delhi that it may now definitely be stated that as far as the all-India Congress Party is concerned there would be no difficulty or delay in establishment of a national government in India. A general understanding on the main points is as good as reached, the dispatch said.)

The change in the outlook of the negotiations between Britain's envoy and the Indian leaders came almost overnight, since only yesterday great pessimism had clouded all quarters in the capital. Cripps' press interview, at which he was expected to announce failure of his mission, was postponed indefinitely.

The activities of Col. Louis Johnson, President Roosevelt's special envoy to India, were believed to have played a large part in the brightened prospects of the negotiations.

BATAAN FALLS TO JAP FORCES

wright, spurned the surrender demand made by Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, conqueror of Singapore.

Wainwright and his men never gave any sign of faltering before the furious Japanese attacks which continued almost day and night as the enemy threw in fresh troops against the rapidly weakening defenders.

Odds 10 Against One

Since the beginning of the Bataan battle the Japanese have outnumbered the defenders at least 10 to 1, but it was not until they brought up heavy air support and still more reinforcements that the Japanese apparently succeeded in smothering resistance.

The battle of Bataan actually began January 10 when the American forces then under Gen. Douglas MacArthur took up positions on the peninsula following the fall of Manila.

The first attack on Bataan was recorded on that day when American artillery men smashed the Japanese onslaught. Since that time the American-Filipino Army has taken a terrific toll of the Japanese in one of the most incredible battles in American history.

Defenders Few

The defending Army was comprised of a comparatively small number of regular United States Army forces and native Filipino units, plus contingents of marines and naval personnel.

Yet this unusual collection of fighting men beat off the best Japanese divisions four months although the enemy controlled the skies and the seafarers.

Since the battle of Bataan began the defending forces not only have repulsed countless waves of Japanese attacks but have themselves launched counter-attacks which left the enemy disorganized and willing to stop fighting for days and sometimes weeks.

The presence of Wainwright at Fort Mills, on powerful Corregidor Island indicated that American forces there were continuing to resist the Japanese despite the collapse of the Bataan defenses.

Corregidor is less than three miles from the tip of Bataan and is one of four forts scattered across the entrance to Manila bay.

Corregidor has been bombed repeatedly by the Japanese, but its guns have continued to blast defiance at the enemy.

The battle of Bataan has immobilized for months seasoned Japanese divisions which might well have been used by the enemy in the invasion of Australia and the Orient.

Considered in this light the Bataan conflict takes on added importance in the general scheme of United Nations resistance and eventual counter-attack.

WAR OFFICE SENDS NOTE THANKING OHIO FACTORIES

MIDDLETOWN, April 9.—The War department today gave a pat on the back to employees of the American Rolling Mill company of Middletown and the Hamilton plant for production records in steel-making set by the men during March.

In a telegram to the men in both plants, Under-Secretary of War Patterson said:

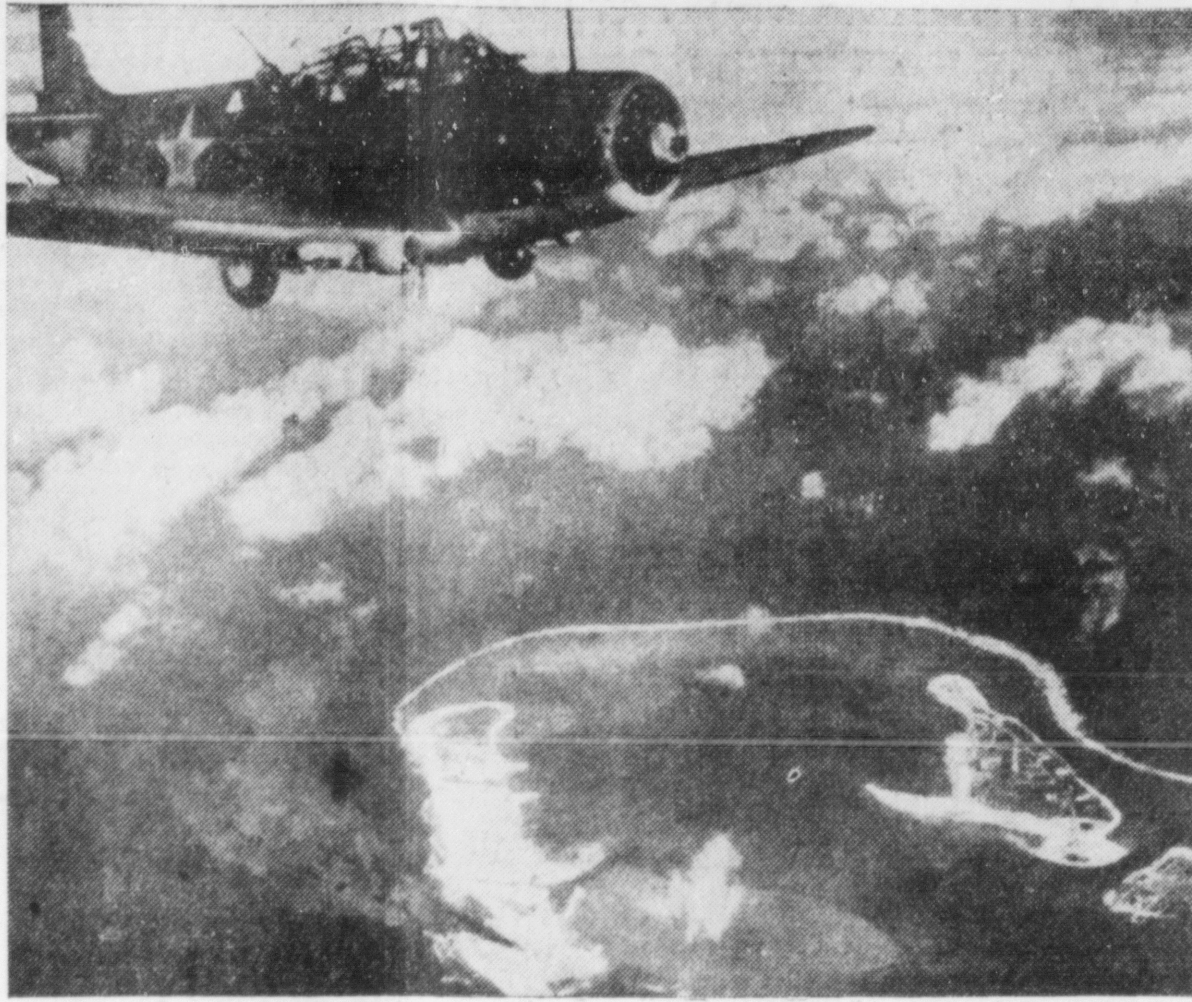

"The Army has been informed that you have broken by one thousand tons the previous record of pig iron output, steel output by 3,600 tons and ingot production by 6,000 tons.

"You are doing your share in giving American soldiers the weapons they must have to take the offensive in this war. Congratulations on your fine work. Keep it up."

MANY MacARTHURS

NEW YORK, April 9.—Health department records showed today that seven baby boys have been named Douglas MacArthur in honor of the United Nations commander in the Pacific. In addition six others were named Douglas Arthur while a thirteenth baby with the surname MacArthur was given the first name of Douglas. Three of the little Douglas MacArthurs are Ne-groes, one apparently Scandinavian and another Slavic.

On Monday the Japanese hit against the eastern coast of the mainland, attacking two ports in Madras presidency, Cocanada and Vizagapatam. The city of Madras itself had an alert Tuesday, but nothing developed.

LONDON, April 9.—German planes today attacked an English south coast town.

A hospital was hit and other damage was reported.

The Nazi raiders heavily machine-gunned the town. There was one fatality.

RAF planes meanwhile resumed attacks against northwest Germany.

A large number of RAF craft participated in the attacks on the Reich during bad weather. One of the objectives raided was the port of Hamburg.

The docks at Le Havre on the occupied French coast also were bombed.

BERLIN, April 9.—(By Official German Wireless)—RAF planes bombed districts in northwest Germany during the night, semi-official sources announced today.

LONDON, April 9.—British Beaufort planes yesterday afternoon attacked a convoy of enemy ships off the coast of Jutland, the air ministry revealed today. Results of the attack could not be observed, it was said.

In Burma the Japanese maintained heavy pressure against the British lines above Prome on the road to the rich Burmese oil fields 60 miles north. But from the eastern front of that front came the encouraging word that the Chinese were holding their lines above Toun-goo, with little activity manifest by the invaders.

Britain and Germany again traded night blows in the air. German planes raided an English town on the south coast, but only one casualty was reported.

Meanwhile RAF planes were over northwestern Germany, continuing the thrusts at Germany's much-needed industrial production.

Reds In White Russia

The Red army fought bitterly to retain the offensive despite Germany's efforts to get a foothold for a Spring smash eastward. Soviet troops were reported to have slashed through the German lines to White Russia, bordering Latvia and Poland at several points. The Russians were pressing home their flanking attack in the Smolensk area, endangering the German position in that important invasion stronghold.

Soviet dispatches reported that 137,000 Germans had been killed and 400,000 wounded in February and March.

DETROIT MAN, 36, ADMITS KILLING WIFE AND CHILD

DETROIT, April 9.—A 36-year-old father entered police headquarters today and confessed, officers said, that he beat his wife, an expectant mother, to death with a hammer, and choked the life out of his four-year-old son.

The father, Sanford Rosenberg, was quoted as saying he and his wife had quarreled about a smashed window in their home. He entered headquarters after roaming downtown streets for several hours, he said.

Police found the wife, Viva, 24, on the floor of her bedroom. A broken machinist's hammer lay near her body. Officers said she had been struck several times.

The child, Frederick, lay in his crib with a blanket wrapped tightly about his neck and the body covered with other blankets.

Rosenberg said he and his wife discovered the broken window when they came home last night. Police quoted him further:

"Somebody had smashed our front door window and my wife got in a rage about it. We started to quarrel and I got mad because I wanted to go to bed and get some sleep. We kept arguing and I finally went out in the kitchen and got the hammer.

"I came back and hit her over the head and just kept on hitting. My son walked into the room and said 'Daddy, don't do that.'

"I picked him up and started to choke him and that's about all I can remember. I turned out the lights and locked the door. I wandered around downtown and I thought of catching a bus out of town, but I finally came over here to tell the police about it."

PREMIERE FILLS GRAND THEATRE; TO BE REPEATED

'Hollywood Premiere of 1942,' presented Wednesday evening at the Grand theatre under auspices of Phi Beta Psi sorority and scheduled to be repeated Thursday at 8:30, attracted a capacity audience to the theatre despite continuous rain.

Roger J. Vega, Grand theatre manager, served as master of ceremonies, while Hunter Chambers was piano accompanist for the program.

Numerous Circleville and Pickaway county school students took parts in the show, being dressed to represent Hollywood stars. The guest star was 'Baby Sandy' played by Sandra Jean Valentine.

Others who had parts in the presentation were Gloria Dean, Glen Dunkel, Joe Ann Hill, Mary Virginia Crites, Eleanor Thomas, Dorothy Reid, Chester Dyke, Doyle Calvert, Barbara Caskey, Dolly Riffle, Frank Webb, Mary K. Badger, Irma Jean Miller, Betsy Huffer, Carolyn Hermann, Beverly Mumaw, Eugene Hamp, Glenn Barnhart, Jeanne Barnes, Rebecca Henson.

Mary Katherine Stein, John Sabine, Stewart Martin and Bill Ebert as Laurel and Hardy, Virginia Bussert, Lillian Stein, Paul Siegwald, Ned Stout, Blen Cook, Patty Owens, Miriam Brown, Virginia Buskirk, William Burget, and Helen Evans. The Circleville high school girls' sextet added much to the program.

A representative from a leading tobacco company discussed to-day the possibility of forming an advisory council for the youth of the community when it met in Pick-away Arms restaurant Thursday noon.

The plan proposes that Rotarians act as individual consultants in their particular fields of business for any youth of the community who wishes vocational advice. The matter was referred to the Boy's work committee, backed by W. E. Wallace, which will study the program further before making any report to the other club members.

VERY OFTEN these days, I get to thinking about the soldier boys at camp. And the sailors, too.

What worries me is... what happens when they get a day off after working their heads off all week? They go to town... and what then?

What happens? The answer is... mostly nothing! Because most towns near army camps just don't have nearly enough entertainment facilities to take care of the soldiers on leave. So the boys just stand around, leaning against lampposts or sitting on doorsteps. And sometimes, the local townsfolk find themselves wondering what's changed the town... instead of pitching in to help the boys have a good time in decent surroundings.

In many towns, however, the situation is better. Many towns have nice, community places where a soldier can go sit down and "chew the fat" and enjoy some cake and milk, or maybe a good glass of beer. The boys like that. And they're not likely to get in trouble... because common sense tells you nothing can be "wrong" about a couple of glasses of beer.

There's another reason, too. The beer industry is cooperating with the army and with the law-enforcement officers to help keep the places where beer is sold, clean and decent. The brewers don't want their beer sold to soldiers in places where bad conditions exist... and they're right.

Seems to me that we Americans ought to get together and do everything we can to make things pleasant for the boys who are in training. They're doing their duty... maybe we have some duties, too, in this direction.

There are lots of ways of helping. We ought to support them all. All of us have our part to play in winning this war... and making life a little easier for the boys in camp is something we all can do something about.

TRACTOR-TRAILER VIEWED

Question Of Spare For Farm
Tractor Covered; Mail
Carriers Cited

Under latest rulings received by George McDowell, county rationing coordinator, from the Ohio State council of defense, school buses operating on tires purchased prior to rubber rationing are not affected by the present restrictions and may haul pupils, teachers, athletic teams or other groups to points other than to and from school.

Mr. McDowell pointed out, however, that school buses operating on tires obtained by certificate can be used only to transport pupils and teachers to and from school. Nearly all of the school buses in the county still are operating on tires which were obtained before the rationing program became effective, the county coordinator said.

In view of the acute rubber shortage, however, Inwood Smith, state coordinator, suggests that the practice of using school buses for non-eligible uses should be discouraged, even though such vehicles are operating on tires purchased prior to the effective date of the rationing regulations.

Recapped Tires Available

Among the other regulations received by the county coordinator were that passenger cars used principally to haul farm trailers carrying produce to market are entitled to recapped tires, provided the applicant does not own, possess, or have control of a truck or other practical means of transportation.

A tractor-trailer combination is considered as two vehicles within the provisions of the regulations restricting spares to one for each vehicle and as such is entitled to a spare tire for both the tractor and the trailer.

Farm tractors are not entitled to carry spare tires unless the applicant can prove to the satisfaction of the local board that it has been his practice in the past to carry such a spare. Also the rationing boards must be satisfied that a need actually exists for such a spare and in no case should there be more than one spare granted.

Rural mail carriers cannot be granted new tires unless they can satisfy their local board that their car is used exclusively for the transportation of mail.

Volunteer firemen using their personal cars are not eligible for new tires nor will they be eligible for recapped tires, since they do not use their cars principally for fire fighting purposes nor will they be paid on a mileage or similar basis by the governmental unit.

Annual Congregational Meeting Of Presbyterian Church Conducted

Leslie D. May was elected to the bench of elders of the First Presbyterian church at the annual meeting of the congregation held Wednesday in the church social room. Mr. May, who was elected for a three-year term, replaces B. K. Clapp, who declined reelection after nine years of service. George D. McDowell was re-elected elder for the next three years, and George F. Grand-Girard, a life member, makes the third in this three-year group.

Ray W. Davis and Fred Colville are the new members chosen for the three-year term on the bench of deacons, James Sampson and Dr. F. C. Schaeffer being reelected for the same period.

The Rev. Robert T. Kelsey served as moderator during the congregational meeting, while Marvin Steeley, elder and clerk of the session, was clerk. His report showed a membership of 424 for the church and 129 for the Sunday school.

The Rev. Mr. Kelsey submitted his report for the last year and for his pastorate. Others reporting at this time were Miss Betty Moeller, secretary, who gave a brief but comprehensive review of the Sunday school year; George Hammel, Sunday school treasurer; Mrs. Sterling Lamb, secretary of the cradle roll, and Fred Colville, president of the Presby-Weds.

Mr. Steeley read the reports of the Westminster Bible class prepared by Mrs. Steeley, secretary, and Mrs. G. G. Campbell, treasurer. Mrs. Hammel reported for the Women's Bible class.

Activities Discussed

The missionary activities of the church were discussed by Mr. Grand-Girard, treasurer of the church benevolence; Mrs. Grace Wentworth, secretary of the Women's Missionary society, and Miss Mary Lou Kochleiser, who spoke concerning the Westminster Circle, a missionary group of nine high school girls.

One of the finest reports of the evening came from Miss Lois Madison, president of the Tuxis club, who told of the last year of the organization when church activities were being discussed. Miss Madison reported a 400 percent increase in membership in this group which is comprised of boys and girls of high school age, reported the change to weekly meetings and told of the three-point plan of programs.

Mr. May, president of the Men's club, briefly reviewed the quarterly meetings of the organization, and Mrs. Donald H. Watt, president of the Women's Social club, reported also. The splendid work of the three divisions of the Ladies' Aid society was reviewed by Mrs. E. S. Stephens, treasurer, who reported the year as unusually successful.

Arthur Wager, master of Boy Scout troop 205, told of the troop's activities especially in connection with the Defense program. The congregation voted to sponsor the troop for another year.

Mrs. McDowell's report as superintendent of the primary department of the Sunday school, was read by Mrs. Watt. Mr. Hammel, treasurer of the bench of deacons, reported for this body.

Increase Approved

Immediately following the congregational meeting, the group met as a corporate body for discussion of business and finances of the church. It was voted unanimously to increase the salary of the pastor $200 a year.

The annual report of the church trustees was discussed by Robert Colville, treasurer of the group. The annual church canvass was reported as incomplete at this time.

J. O. Eagleson and Earl W. Lutz were reelected members of the board of trustees.

At the conclusion of the business, the Rev. Mr. Kelsey read a letter from Herbert Booth Smith, moderator of the national Presbyterian organization, concerning the duties and responsibilities of the church in war time.

Meeting Of Presbyterian Church Conducted

The church gave a vote of thanks to Mrs. G. H. Colvill and her daughter, Mrs. J. C. Lincoln, of Phoenix, Ariz., Miss Clara Southward and brother, G. W. Southward, of Naples, N. Y., for their generous contribution of $1,300 to the reduction of the church debt.

About 75 members of the congregation enjoyed a delightful co-operative dinner at the beginning of the evening, a large number arriving for the later meetings. Miss Florence Dunton, president, and other officers of the Ladies' Aid society were in charge of the dinner.

'EXPERT' SAYS NAMES REVEAL VARIED TRAITS

NEW YORK, April 9 — Hey, fellows. Should your pals suggest you accompany them on a "blind" date and the field be your choice. You'll probably ask for Joan if the gal you care to date should be young and good-looking. Linda for sophistication.

Mary for religious consolation. Mazie for a one-way conversation—that is Mazie will talk and you listen.

Minnie if you want someone "slightly dumb."

So says Nathan Schoenfeld, assistant in Columbia University's department of psychology, in his report made public today on the likes and dislikes people have for certain names. Schoenfeld polled 300 individuals about their attitudes on 32 masculine and feminine names and it was agreed that their ideas as to the character of the names were very similar.

According to Schoenfeld, most people questioned think Herman stupid; Rex athletic, while Richard and Cuthberts, good-looking but sissies. Agatha seems middle-aged; Adrian, the artistic type; Edward friendly and Austin, cultured.

"Although more than 150 persons associated the trait 'good-looking' with Richard, it is Lardy probable that this large group all know handsome Richards," he said. "Where these general or stereotype ideas originate is a matter for discussion. Perhaps they are a fashion and change with the times. At any rate, they are not to be accepted as truth when it comes to names."

Like orange, the coffee tree or shrub sometimes bears at one time blossoms, green berries or "cherries," and red or ripe berries.

AAA GROUP TOLD GREAT STOCK OF WHEAT ON HAND

DeLashmuth Discusses Need For Marketing Quotas To Assure Loans

50 ATTEND CONFERENCE

Storage Situation Becomes More Critical, Specialist Says At Meeting

Floyd DeLashmuth, extension specialist of Ohio State university, Wednesday told 50 farmer-AAA representatives from nine counties meeting in Betz' restaurant that the nation has on hand the greatest stock of wheat in history, and he warned that all signs pointed to a carry-over in 1943 of an all-time record breaking surplus.

According to DeLashmuth, there are 650 million bushels of wheat now in stock, enough to last the nation more than a year. This year, he said, should lift the surplus to over 750 million bushels. "Unless the wheat marketing quota is approved at the referendum on May 2, the government cannot legally make loans on 1942 wheat," DeLashmuth reminded farmers. "And" he added, "present stocks of wheat, export demand conditions, and the present prospective 1942 crop all indicate a greater need for a price-supporting program in any year since 1932-33."

Prices Continue Up

DeLashmuth said that while total wheat supplies have risen to record levels in recent years, prices received by farmers for wheat have risen consistently and have averaged well above the loan value and world prices every year since the adoption of the price-supporting policy.

"U. S. wheat producers have been protected against excessive importation during the current year by the import quota established by Presidential proclamation on May 25, 1941," the university representative stated, "but import quotas will be abolished along with commodity loans on wheat if the marketing quota is defeated."

The storage situation rapidly is growing more critical, DeLashmuth warned, and he predicted that farmers during the coming year would have to "hunt places to put wheat."

"The storage situation in the United States," he said, "will be much worse than it was last year, and many farmers can recall the cramped storage situation that existed then. The bottleneck in storage is apt to occur this year in the wheat marketing season, and again in the soybean marketing season."

DeLashmuth advised farmers to provide facilities for storage on the farm to prevent "getting caught."

Other speakers on the agricultural "outlook" program included Harry Donahoe, AAA fieldman, and Dean D. Deeds, member of the state AAA committee.

Counties represented at the meeting were Pickaway, Licking, Fairfield, Franklin, Fayette, Ross, Highland, Clinton, and Madison.

Some Facts About Marines

This splendid movie, "To the Shores of Tripoli," opens Sunday and continues through Wednesday at the new deluxe Grand theatre.

UNCLE SAM NEEDS MEN TO WORK IN CANAL ZONE

Another link in Uncle Sam's chain of defenses—this time the Panama Canal—has sent out a call for skilled tradesmen and engineers.

Among the tradesmen needed are armature winders, boatbuilders, marine boilermakers, instrument repairmen, coppermiths, marine machinists, general machinists, refrigeration machinists, molders, planing mill hands, marine pipefitters, patternmakers, joiner-cabinetmakers, riveters, sailmakers, shipfitters, shipwrights, sheet metal workers, toolmakers, welders (electric), wiremen (electrical), assistant mechanical engineers, engineering draftsmen of various grades.

The Canal Zone is an area, roughly speaking, ten miles wide extending across the Isthmus.

The basic requirements of healthful living are being maintained in the Canal Zones and the hospitals, commissaries and restaurants are adequate to meet the needs of the population.

The Canal Zone is located only nine degrees north of the equator—however, contrary to popular belief, it is rarely uncomfortably hot and heat prostrations are practically unknown. The temperature ranges from 70 to 90 degrees and the nights are generally cool.

Bachelor quarters are furnished employees at a monthly charge of $9 to $12.75 for single occupancy or $5 to $8 when two persons are assigned to one room. Prices in general are approximately the same as in the United States.

Recreation is provided through gymnasiums, clubhouses, theatres, swimming pools, play fields, and bathing beaches.

Further information regarding opportunities in Panama may be obtained by calling on Leslie Pontius, local secretary, board of U. S. Civil Service examiners, Postoffice building.

The Methodist Episcopal church, South, was organized and held its first general conference at Petersburg, Va., May 1-23, 1846. It was at this time that it effected its organization following the separation from the Northern church.

CATTLE PRICES FORCED UP BY STOCK SCARCITY

Scarcity of good cattle on sale forced cattle prices 25 to 40 cents higher Wednesday at the Pickaway livestock association sale. One hundred and five head of cattle were sold during the afternoon with the best steers and heifers bringing from $11 to $12.60.

Hogs between 200 and 270 pounds brought from $14 up, while lights weighing between 160 and 200 pounds brought from $13.75 to $14. Good to choice calves sold for as high as $15.40 and there were no lambs on sale.

CHINESE ROAD-BUILDING

WE CAN understand now how the Chinese could have built that great wall, with only primitive hand tools, along their northern border more than 2,000 years ago. That was the greatest construction job in human history.

They are now engaged in another mighty task, which goes almost unnoticed among the great events of these times. They are constructing a new highway immensely more difficult than the famous Burma Road which has served them as a supply line in this war and is now endangered by the Japanese.

This is known as the Sikang-Assam route. Built with primitive hand tools, it goes over the hitherto unconquered Himalayas, to connect China with northern India. Scores of thousands of workmen are engaged in the task, laying out the route and swarming like flies over the "roof of the world," bridging rivers and spanning deep chasms.

This, too, is in a region of very heavy rainfall where roads of the macadam type are easily washed out. The ends of the highway are reported as ready now, but intermediate sections perhaps a thousand miles long are still to be built. At the Indian end the highway connects with Calcutta by road and rail. Added to this enterprise are two alternate routes, largely un-built as yet, one of them more than 2,000 miles long.

The determination of the Chinese to have dependable outlets to India is evident. Those two great nations are to be more closely joined than ever before.

LIFE IS LIKE THAT

ONE OF the neat and complete examples of artistic irony coming out of this war is the story of Charles Baughan, the airman who navigated planes for some years "by grace and by God," but who finally felt the need of knowing some principles of navigation by stars.

"So I bought me a book and learned to celestiate," he says, "and I am real good now. But luck helped me as much as celestiating."

He found himself with three tons of airplane to set down on the Pacific at 120 miles an hour. Clouds were near the water, night was approaching and there wasn't enough gas to chance climbing. He thought this was "it." But it wasn't. They finally began to get signals from their radio which Mike was repairing, and ended by setting the plane down on a Hawaiian field without gas enough to taxi off the runway.

This was but one of many adventures

EAST COAST SHIPPING

WASHINGTON — There are two major phases to the U. S. shipping picture, currently the sourest spot in the war program.

One, discussed two days ago in this column, is the problem of speeding the production of hundreds of desperately needed cargo vessels. As revealed in that article, this vast program is being seriously hampered by waste, inefficiency and pilfering of public funds and materials.

The other phase is the equally vital job of loading and routing the great fleet of merchant ships needed to supply the embattled war machines of the United Nations. Here too the story is often the same — mismanagement, tragic waste and worse.

The picture is not all black. As in the case of shipbuilding, the situation on the West Coast now is very good—thanks to recent marked improvement due to the appointment of a regional shipping czar, Dean Wayne Morse of Oregon university. Authority was centralized in his hands on the joint recommendation of ship operators and the CIO longshoreman's union, the dominant maritime labor organization.

But on the Atlantic Coast the picture is very different. There it smells to high heaven.

Following the excellent results obtained by the appointment of Morse, the President advised War Shipping Administrator Emory S. (Jerry) Land to clean up the dismal East Coast mess the same way. The inside word is that Land balked under pressure from the operators and Jack Ryan, burly boss of the AFL longshoreman's union, which rules the Boston, New York and Philadelphia waterfronts.

Rival CIO marine leaders charge that behind the opposition of Ryan and the operators is the fear that under an impartial federal shipping czar the CIO unions will wrest control of the waterfront from them. But whatever the reason, it is a fact that Land has resisted taking the step that has produced such excellent results on the West Coast.

MISMANAGEMENT AND SABOTAGE

It is also a fact that the ship loading situation on the Atlantic Coast has become so bad that the Justice Department and Truman committee have started probes that already have uncovered shocking evidence.

These disclosures are so serious that insiders say it is practically certain there will be arrests and prosecutions on criminal charges.

These are some of the things discovered by the investigators.

1. That large numbers of known members of the Bund, Christian Front and similar organizations are permitted to load which came to a happy issue because of skill and courage. Charlie went on to Australia with his plane, safely and skilfully once more. Then he started across the street, was hit by a street-car running on what Americans think is the wrong side of the road, and when last heard from was nursing a broken ankle in an Australian hospital.

Many Causes for Maladies Producing Pains in Abdomen

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE ACUTE abdomen is a term employed by surgeons and means any sudden catastrophe which produces severe abdominal symptoms.

The acute abdomen, in terms of symptoms, means pain, discomfort, fever, prostration, shock and Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

vomiting. They may not all be present, but usually a combination of three or four of these will be present. It is highly important for the surgeon to make a diagnosis before shock and prostration interfere with treatment and that is why the condition should be known to the layman in every household.

The causes of acute abdomen are many. Probably the commonest is acute appendicitis. This may start out quite insidiously, but within 24 or 48 hours change from a mild pain in the abdomen to a severe condition of distention, vomiting and shock.

A second cause of the acute abdomen is intestinal obstruction. The commonest form of this is a strangulated hernia. It is astonishing how many people do not know that they have a hernia which may be dangerous. Of a series of patients who entered a hospital with a strangulated femoral hernia, 43 per cent, and their doctors, did not know that a hernia existed, and had no idea of the cause of the symptoms.

A third form of intestinal obstruction occurs around adhesions. In any patient who has had an abdominal operation and who suddenly has the symptoms of acute abdomen, this complication should be suspected.

Another which occurs in children is known as intussusception. This is a telescoping of the small bowel into the large bowel. A form of intestinal obstruction that occurs in old people is known as volvulus and is due to a twisting of the bowel on itself.

Acute abdomen may be caused by perforation of a part of the stomach or bowel in which an ulcer has eaten through. This occurs in ulcer of the stomach, typhoid fever, ulcerative colitis and other conditions.

Still another cause of acute abdomen is a twisting of one of the pelvic organs.

The most important thing that the layman should know about acute abdomen is not to try to treat it at home; especially not to try to treat it with cathartics. Somebody who has "a little bellyache" almost invariably thinks it will

Public schools will be asked to help train young men for aviation where classes of fifteen or more can be enrolled. That means aviation classes everywhere, for practically every young man who wishes to enter that branch of the service.

In comes the editor with information that Bataan has fallen. Well, that was to be expected. That handful of hardy men and officers could not hold out forever against such overwhelming odds. It is almost a miracle that they were able to stand off the Japs as long as they did. One of the most gallant stands in all of American history. Now, the Japs will turn toward the forts guarding Manila Bay, and there they will have another hard nut to crack. This one may prove impossible for them.

Lawrence Jeffries of Columbus, formerly of Circleville, had an interesting article on insurance in the April issue of "The Consumer's Digest."

10 YEARS AGO
Mrs. L. B. James of West Mound street attended the wedding of Miss Bettina Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Johnson, and Mr. John S. Truesdell of Columbus which took place in the St. Paul Episcopal church of that city.

More than 150 members of the American Legion, from three counties, Pickaway, Ross and Fayette, gathered in Circleville in the second of a series of tri-county convales.

T. M. Glick, president of the Pickaway county farm bureau, J. R. Noecker, banker, and Miss Ethel Brobst, farm bureau employee, were named Pickaway county's committee to take applications for federal farm loans.

CHAPTER FORTY

THE LYNDON heiress had all she could do to keep from bursting into laughter when the president of Zenith pictures gave orders for his dinner to be served at the other table. She whispered to Jimmy, "Bet the other guests think that's pretty fast work for an old man." And then she almost laughed a second time, except a pathetic something about it changed her amusement into sadness. James Lyndon was moving back into his original chair, a more convenient site from which to scrutinize the beautiful stranger before them. For Anette seemed a stranger.

Young Lyndon commented, "She seems so different."

"It's the tan," his sister explained. "One of my bright ideas. Mr. Carruthers gave it away he wanted Mona to have that color skin. As if any foundation wouldn't take care of that—but if a little case of yellow jaundice suits him, that's fine. Personally I prefer her white like a lily."

Her brother breathed rapturously, "Either way!"

"Yes. Oh, Jimmy, can't you just see her in color?"

"Take it easy." He clamped a hand over hers. "She may not get it."

"She's got to." The girl's voice was almost a whisper. "It's everything to me. Revenge, soul-cleanser—well, just everything." Dreamlike faded into provocation. "Imagine Larry and his agent even trying to make arrangements for Criterion to loan out Sandra Owens to Zenith."

The next morning when she, her brother and Carruthers went out on one of the hotel's fishing cruises the motion picture executive's enthusiasm was flame high. Even when he caught a 90-pound sailfish the thrill was not to be compared with that of having watched the brunette girl walk past the pool the previous night, climb the steps between those jagged white bannisters and lean against the balustrade of Mexican ebony to wave goodnight to him. "You should have seen her!" he said countless times.

Despite being an ardent fisherman he was glad to get back to shore, and that night made his excuses to the Lyndon pair. They saw him later in the cheerful bar, with his vivid murals of typical peon life. The brunette girl, in the same dress, but wearing a different head shawl, was with him. They were drinking benedictine frappe and listening to the fascinating rhythms of the mariachi—native Mexican guitar players and singers.

Quite late that evening he granted them a brief moment, merely to say he was returning to Hollywood the next day. "She's coming in to sign the contract and I want you kids there for luck, because your bringing me down here was a streak of luck and I want to keep the charm connected with this picture. It's the only one I've bothered with lately. It's got to be right."

Lois Lyndon sat in one of Mr. Carruthers' ornate office rooms at Zenith, Incorporated, and wondered how Anette could appear so placid, when her own heart was bumping like fury. James Lyndon also looked uncomfortable.

After rapid introductions the important old man had waved the Lyndon pair out of his way and pulled up a chair near his desk for Anette. A secretary brought in contract papers, placed them before Carruthers and exited.

"Now, my dear," he said, "here is the contract. You can read through it. It's a very generous one, because I have faith in you. And," he smiled, "I want you to have faith in me. If you have the same faith, you'll sign. Otherwise you'll want your lawyer to examine it."

Without hesitancy Anette picked up the pen and then she did hesitate. She put the pen back into its holder. "I can't do it, Mr. Carruthers. Not until I tell you who I really am."

"Anette!" Lois Lyndon cried out in a horrified way. James Lyndon just closed his eyes and clapped his hand over them.

"What is this?" demanded Carruthers. He began pounding the mahogany desk to make his words heard above the expostulations of Lois. "Be quiet, you young imp!" Beneath his bitter scolding the blonde girl quieted. He addressed the brunette, whose face, framed by a strikingly veiled large black hat, was ashamed and yet imploring. "It's some sort of trick of course. But what?"

Lois answered despite his rapid opposition and went right on talking. "All right. It is a trick. I admit it and I'm to blame but I don't care." She left her chair and moved to Carruthers' desk, then gradually sidled back of it. Soon she had her arm around his unyielding shoulders. "Don't be angry. If I had asked you to interview a friend of mine, you would have yelled and thrown things. So I planned this little—"

"Sneak trick!" he cut in, but his shoulders were not so stiff.

"What difference does it make? She's perfect for Mona. Even you admitted it. She's really your discovery, so why are you so cranky?"

"I don't like being cheated."

"It was for your own good," the girl said with smugness and moved back to her own chair. "Everyone raved about Anette Winslow in Bradford's and Seymour's show, 'The Violent Flame.' I'm surprised at your ignorance."

Carruthers snatched the telephone. "Get me Bradford and Seymour." To Lois he said insinuatingly, "I don't intend to be cheated again."

Well, this is the finish, thought Anette. Her premonitions were not helped at all by Carruthers' clamorous, poker-faced responses to the call. After its termination he eyed the guilty trio with an expression that harbingered no glad tidings. Then he smiled.

"Bradford said they still were sore as mistreated elephants but they had to admit you were talented. Lance Erickson was in the office. He got on the phone long enough to say you not only were a good actress but a regular horse-thief when it came to stealing scenes." He picked up the fountain pen and handed it to Anette.

Larry was not at home when Anette arrived. When she telephoned his studio she was told that Mr. Peyton was on the set. The difficult fight scenes were being made. Her message would be relayed and Mr. Peyton would call her back. As minutes crept into hours and Larry did not call, his wife decided his neglect was deliberate, a retaliation to her having been away.

Still if that was the case, she reasoned puzzledly, why did he lean over to kiss her so tenderly when he finally did come in and she was feigning sleep. Before she could yawn through a process of awakening that would look real, he had tumbled upon his own bed, without doing more than remove his coat, and promptly was in a sleep of absolute exhaustion. His wife took off his shoes and covered him with a down-filled satin comfort.

Even though the company had tolled late, the next day's call was at its regular early hour. Anette heard the Filipino boy call Larry and, soon after, got up herself.

The morning papers carried the story. In fact Larry's eyes were on it by the time she managed to follow him into the breakfast room.

"Well!" he said, in a not particularly pleased voice and slapped the page with a backflip of his hand. "I've got to hand it to you."

"Pure luck," Anette said modestly. "Lois really did it."

Her husband kept on reading. "Guess she feels paid now for all her tortured feelings. And yours, too. Oh, well, Sandra could never have done it. I have to admit it. I don't know about you, but Sandra, poor kid, simply does not have it in her to do a big part. I've found that out during the past few weeks." He shook his head and made a clicking jaw noise of worry.

"I've done my best. I've tried to help her and I don't feel responsible after this picture, which, incidentally, is going to lay an egg, or I miss my guess." Abruptly his eyes centered upon his wife in such a way that she knew Schofield had been right. "What a gal you are." Larry said with uncontrollable pride. "Little country girl goes out and nabs herself the plum of the year. Anette Peyton as Mona."

His wife corrected, "Anette Winslow."

"We'll see about that." He moved behind her chair and put his arms around her. "I've a great plan. What do you say, after I finish my flasco with Sandra, and before you start working, that we go on a trip, a real honeymoon?" Anette did not need to say yes. She simply dropped her cheek to his hand. Her husband said, "Why, we'll be the most famous pair in the United States!"

However, Criterion decided personal appearances might help the picture at the boxoffice and sent Peyton and Owens on plane junkets that took the better part of November. While they were gone, Anette read Barrington's novel studying not only her own part, but that of Steven, realizing what a splendid portrayal Larry would make of that character. By golly she was going to ask Carruthers about it, even if the mere thought did give her goose pimples.

On the day that Larry returned to Hollywood he rushed from the airport to the house. "I have to go to the studio, dear. I'll be back in an hour."

Instead, many hours passed before she heard from him, and then it was Ralph Hay calling. "You'd better get over to the hospital, Anette. Larry had a car wreck—general shakeup and some nasty cuts on the face. It's pretty bad, kid." He paused a bare second, then said what he knew he had to say. "Sandra Owens has several broken bones—"

President Frank J. Prout announced that Anderson will take over his new duties in June. The former Toledo mentor, whose cage teams won 141 games and lost 39 during his eight years, was granted an indefinite leave of absence to assume a defense post at Terre Haute, Ind.

DIMAGGIO HITS TWO HOME RUNS, BUT YANKEES LOSE

WILMINGTON, Del., April 9—A preview of what may be the 1942 world series contestants — New York Yankees vs. Brooklyn Dodgers—goes on display today for the sixth time this season with the Durocher clan holding a three to two lead in games. The Dodgers gained the edge by walloping the Yanks, 13-9, in an old-fashioned slugfest match with Joe DiMaggio clouting a pair of homers and Arky Vaughn contributing five hits in as many times at bat.

Several vocal selections were given by Glenn Gross.

Refreshments of ginger bread and whipped cream and coffee were served.

CINCINNATI '9' TO PLAY TIGERS IN SUNDAY FRAY

Redland Field Fans Will Get First Look At '42 Flag Contender

CINCINNATI, April 9—The eagerly awaited arrival of the Cincinnati Reds on the home grounds will take place Sunday when the Reds engage the Detroit Tigers in the final exhibition game of the Spring season. The game will serve as a preview for the official opening on Tuesday against the Pittsburgh Pirates in the first of a three-game series.

The sojourn will be brief for the Reds are scheduled to take their highly-touted pitching staff and their much publicized outfield difficulties on a successive series of road stops at Chicago, St. Louis and Pittsburgh before returning to Crosley field on April 25 to meet the Chicago Cubs.

As in other past years, the traditional fanfare attending the start of a new season will greet the opening game Tuesday.

In one of Cincinnati's oldest baseball ceremonies, the members of the Findlay Market Association will parade before the game which Gov. John W. Bricker will start at 2:30 by tossing out the first ball.

But the fans will crowd into the stands and bleachers with a curious intent on sizing up the current edition of the Reds who have been rated by the pre-season experts as a strong finisher in the first division of the national league pennant race.

Cincinnati has hovered on the 500 percent mark in the Grapefruit Circuit and displayed occasional sprays of batting power in which department the Reds are regarded as fairly weak.

Clout Power Needed

The main lack of hitting power in the outfield has deepened the creases in Manager Bill McKechnie's forehead as he scans the long trail to the pennant homestretch, but the powerful ball-slugging displayed recently by Gerald "Gee" Walker, the former Cleveland outfielder, has broadened his lean weather-beaten face into smiles.

Mike McCormick, who has been handling the centerfield chores and Ival Goodman in right field appear to be steady favorites to complete the second line defensive of the Crosley ballclub. Both players have stacked up well in the spring-training "batting," but then those exhibitions are only preliminary workouts to main series of bouts that lie ahead in a keener atmosphere of competition.

There is no question of Cincinnati's bounty of able hurlers. Young Elmer Riddle, who led the national league with 19 victories against four defeats, veterans Bucky Waters who pitched 19 wins and Johnny Vander Meer who hurled 16, are a tough combination on any team to beat.

Veteran Paul Derringer is slated for one of his best seasons, Derringer was handicapped last year with a back injury sustained early in the season and registered only 12 victories. The other formidable array of moundmen include Joe Begg, Whitely Moore, Raymond Starr and Monte Pearson.

Haas On Hot Corner

The perennial rookie of the big leagues, Bert Haas will be a newcomer to Cincinnati fans. The former Columbus first baseman successfully survived the transfer to third base where he is slated to remain.

Rollie Hemsley will be a new backdrop behind the Crosley plate but the big-league "bad boy" has settled down to earn the receiving assignment and may provide the batting ability which resulted partially in popular Ernie Lombardi's transfer to the Braves.

Powerhouse Frank McCormick at first, Lonnie Frey on the key-stone sack and Eddie Joost at short appear as the first choice to complete Cincinnati's infield posts.

The Reds are on their way to Ohio with an exhibition game scheduled today at Charleston.

CHICAGO OUTFIT, RETAINS MARGIN IN ABC FIVE-MAN

COLUMBUS, April 9—The Budweiser team of Chicago won the "first half" of the ABC tournament here and now everyone is wondering who'll win the "second half" which has just gotten under way.

Now that the 36 alleys have been refinished—they were given a good coat of shellac yesterday following carpenter work when "high boards" were planed down—it's just like another tournament. They even threw in 100 or so booster teams last night to "break in" the drives again.

That's the reason behind the two idle days right smack in the middle of the tournament. The idleness comes to an end tonight when some leading Cleveland teams head two squads of regulars which will resume firing. From now on until May 13 at 7:30 p. m. there'll be plenty of action.

A total of 2410 teams are to bowl in the regular classification with 48 boosters also scheduled. For some reason or other the boosters are mixed in on the last night of the tournament instead of the usual procedure of having them bowl early.

Wednesday and Thursday were given over to sleep for all employees of the tournament who enjoyed the two days of white space in the schedule.

Back in 1933 when the tournament was first held in Columbus it continued for 33 days. Here the '42 tournament has been going for 37 days and it's just half over.

TED ROSEQUIST CALLED INTO ARMY AIR FORCE

CLEVELAND, April 9—West high school lost its football coach today when Ted Rosequist, former Ohio State university gridder, was ordered to report for duty as a physical training instructor at Daniel Field, Augusta, Ga. Commissioned a second lieutenant, Rosequist will be attached to the United States Army air force combat command. He will report for duty April 20.

PITCHERS NAMED

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., April 9—Harold Newhouse for the Tigers and Clyde Shoun for the Cardinals was the pitching lineup today as Detroit and the St. Louis National league representatives met in Johnson City in the last game of their Spring training series.

W. Va., Friday at Ashland, Ky., and Saturday in Dayton.

Bucky Walters and Johnny Vander Meer have both won their respective games, the only two Red hurlers to go the full nine-inning route.

Vander Meer held the Boston Red Sox to four hits and one run as Cincinnati provided the extra tally to win Monday 2 to 1. Walters allowed nine hits yesterday that earned two runs for the Red Sox while his teammates knocked three pitchers out of the box with an eleven-run slugging drive. Goodman and Walker both accounted for homers, indicating that the outfield of the Reds may really have that batting punch which reams of copy deplored.

CIRCLEVILLE GETS $16,000

Nearly $10,000,000 Issued By Cylon Wallace Week Ahead Of Schedule

Initial 1942 distribution of motor vehicle tag funds to counties and cities was made Thursday by Cylon W. Wallace, registrar of the bureau of motor vehicles.

Nearly $10,000,000 was sent out to cities and counties in this first distribution. The amount is approximately the same as last year, but, with most cities and counties in need of funds, Wallace speeded up the distribution which is being made a week ahead of schedule.

Pickaway county communities receive a total of $52,650 of which $30,000 goes into the county fund. Circleville receives a check for $16,000. Other communities are given the following amounts: Ashville, $2,850; Commercial Point, $700; New Holland, $1,350; South Bloomfield, $200; Tarlton, $300; and Williamsport, $1,250.

Other towns and cities in south central Ohio were given the following amounts: Laurelville, $1,300; Amanda, $1,475; Lancaster, $40,800; Lithopolis, $850; New Holland, $250. (Fayette county section); Washington C. H., $23,300; Wilmington, $15,000; Mount Sterling, $3,700; London, $11,250; Adelphi, $600; Chillicothe, $42,300; Clarksburg, $950; Kingston, $1,600.

Greatest amount sent to any one city was $1,789,500, which went to Cleveland. Cincinnati received $876,000 and Columbus, $691,000.

Money from this distribution may be used only for street repair and maintenance.

Volunteer workers will assist the local board with the registration.

HEAVY RAINFALL COVERS COUNTY

Inch And Half Recorded During Night; Scioto River Rising

Circleville and Pickaway county was soaked Thursday with one of the biggest rains of the year.

The official measurement Thursday at 8 a. m. was 1.42 inches and the weatherman predicted continued showers.

Stage of the Scioto river jumped 1.89 feet Wednesday night due to the rain, but still had nearly six feet to go before reaching flood stage. Scioto waters, however, which measured 6.52 feet Thursday morning were rising steadily as the rain continued to fall.

Wet weather will keep farmers from finishing their pea and sweet corn plantings but will help Spring pastures and meadows.

ships carrying war supplies to Britain and Russia.

2. That one ship broke in two and capsized in mid-ocean due to improper loading. Tanks and other heavy equipment had been loaded fore and aft and light materials amidships, violating the first rule of ship loading to distribute a cargo evenly. Investigating agents are convinced this was sabotage.

3. Shifting cargo forced another ship to turn back from a Russia-bound convoy. The vessel was torpedoed and sunk a day later.

4. Five other vessels which developed cargo-shifting trouble also had to turn back, but fortunately escaped Nazi subs. However, to save them from breaking up and capsizing, a considerable portion of their precious war cargoes had to be thrown into the sea. When the ships landed it was found that in two of them there were no cotter pins in the shackles to which wires and chains, securing the cargoes, were fastened. This was chalked down by investigators as another clear case of sabotage at the loading port.

5. Recently in Philadelphia a number of longshoremen belonging to a certain pro-Axis organization boycotted a ship assigned to carry important fighting equipment to Russia. The vessel was held up more than a week. Fifty-four men working in staggered gangs of 18 each could have loaded this ship easily in two days. Yet due to some mysterious influence the necessary 54 men could not be immediately found in this teeming port city.

Note: Several weeks ago, in an effort to clean up the bad ship-routting muddle that had developed under Land, the President brought back Lewis Douglas, one-time Budget Director, from London, where he was assisting Lend-Lease Coordinator Averell Harriman, and put him to work on the problem. Douglas already has greatly improved the routing situation.

SHEENAGANS

Chinese Ambassador Hu Shih called on the President the other day, and took time out from war problems to say:

"Mr. President, I am a great admirer of your radio talks. Your delivery is superb, but even more remarkable is your choice of language." Roosevelt thanked the Ambassador for the compliment, but Hu Shih had more to say. "It is your mastery of simple language, which I most admire—your scorn of polysyllables and academic phrases."

"But," continued Hu Shih, "there was one word in a recent broadcast which I couldn't understand. It was a four-syllable word and you seldom use four-syllable words."

"What word was that?" asked the President.

"Shenanigans," said the Ambassador.

WAR CHAFF

If you think U. S. taxes are stiff, here are a few facts on what the British taxpayer is up against: British war taxes now are so steep that there are practically no incomes over $25,000. Sales taxes range from 12 to 24 percent. The tax on the cheapest brand of cigarettes is 14 cents a package; $2.30 on a bottle of whiskey, and 10 cents on a pound of sugar. . . . When CIO president Phil Murray addressed a public meeting in Charlotte, N. C., he was introduced by Dr. Frank Graham, head of the University of N. C., and prominent among the audience were the Governor of the State and the Mayor of the city. Also Murray was extended a cordial welcome to Charlotte in a full-page newspaper ad paid for by local business men and AFL unions. . . . Lt. General Ben Lear, plain-talking commander of the Second Army, made his widely quoted speech before the Economic Club in Detroit at the personal request of Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson. Lear's candid speech and equally blunt actions are highly esteemed among top War Department officials.

DUVALL YOUTHS TO BOOST VALUE OF THEIR STOCK

Duvall Go-Getters, one of the outstanding 4-H clubs in the county, will carry livestock projects valued at $5,000 this year.

Livestock raised by members of the club last year was valued at $3,000 and indications are that activity in the club will boost that amount by $2,000 in 1942. Twenty-two members already are enrolled in the club, which is directed by Charles Eversole of Ashville.

Members of the club decide on projects such as steer feeding, dairy, poultry and swine. The following members will serve as officers of the club this year: Robert Peters, president; Don Duvall, vice-president; Robert Cummings, secretary; Don Hoover, treasurer, and Busse Hedges, news reporter.

Other 4-H clubs throughout the county are organizing this week under a state-wide mobilization program. County Agricultural Agent F. K. Blair predicts that the total county 4-H enrollment will approximate 500 this year.
